

Culturally safe sexual assault support services are critical to the safety, healing and wellbeing of all Aboriginal people, including children, young people and adults experiencing or at risk of sexual abuse.

If you or someone close to you has experienced sexual abuse it's ok to yarn about it

It is not your fault

We can support you

Art Narrative:

The hand in the middle represents someone who has experienced sexual assault/abuse and is seeking help. The feet represent community members coming to the person's aid and walking with them on their healing journey. The outer shapes represent healing stones. The rippled pattern represents the impact trauma and healing can have on people and therefore the broader community.
